Perinton Parade

By G. W. G.

The 1st anniversary of Fairport G.L.F. Service, Inc., will be held at their plant, Turk Hill Rd., this Friday, March 26, from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Burt Richardson, manager, advises us that refreshments will be served to those attending, and extends a cordial invitation to the public to visit them on Friday.

Spring is here at last. Pussy-willows are showing their velvet heads in the country. And with Spring also comes mud. It seems to some housewives as though they spend all day chasing around after the family with a mop and broom, to clean up mud and dirt the family tracks in. But outside of this little inconvenience, we all like Spring.

Did you know that New York State's motor fuel consumption has increased steadily without a break for ten consecutive years and at present is running at levels more than fifty per cent higher than consumption in the pre-war year of 1911 when total consumption was slightly over two billion gallons?

April 1 is the day, and "weather" or not, fishermen by the thousands will shake off the winter's "rigs" to open the '54 trout season in New York State. When late trout, salmon and in the Finger Lake's region rainbows may be taken. Browns and browns may also be taken on that date in parts of various tributaries to Seneca, Cayuga, Oneida, Champlain, Keuka and Stantecles Lakes. However the statewide season for brooks, browns and rainbows will not open until Saturday, April 10. The 1954 Fishing Guide with reference to late trout, salmon, brooks, browns and rainbows will be issued shortly. The size limit on trout in 12 northern counties has been reduced from 7 to 6 inches.

Executives of this area's business and industry agree that key personnel need special training in order to meet the return to more normal, competitive business conditions, and that help in human relations is what is needed most. Heads of over 50 companies in the Rochester area have reported in a survey conducted by Kelly-Reed & Co., Inc., that a more highly competitive business period has returned and that this condition requires a higher ratio of productivity of employees.

"Mind Your Motor Manners" is the safety theme of the month, according to James R. Burrett, Chief of the Police Bureau of the State Division of Safety. Those drivers who regard courteous driving as unimportant apparently have failed to realize that discourtesy is both the direct and indirect cause of thousands of accidents. Remember to drive and walk as though a life depended upon it, because it does.

Spring always bring with it the annual Clean Up, Fix Up and Paint Up time and your Fairport firms have all the necessary materials for these activities. Here you'll find lumber, paints, lawn and garden tools and many other items you'll need for the purpose. The next time you're downtown see your Fairport dealers for these necessities.

Police officials are on the lookout for youngsters who are pilfering coins out of parking meters. The adults may be considered "accomplices" to the "crime." After parking their cars, motorists deposit their coins but many forget to push down the arm which controls the timing mechanism. They are not only parking in violation but give some "entertaining" boys and girls an opportunity to reclaim the coins by means of a wad of chewing gum and a string. We don't like to discourage the inventive minds of youngsters but we would like to submit our "invention" for stopping out of trouble—DON'T DO IT!

Youth Commission Dance For Benefit

The Junior Youth Commission is holding a round and square dance Friday evening from 9 to 12:30 o'clock at the Fairport Town Hall for the purpose of raising money for the Community Chest.

Herb Kern's orchestra will supply the music for dancing.

County Inter-Library System Aids Bed-Ridden Invalids

As a member of the Monroe County Library System the Fairport Library has access to the vast resources of the Rochester Public Library. This inter-library system has proved to be very beneficial as anything in book form may be borrowed from the central library except books on the seven day list.

At the bi-weekly book review meeting on March 3, Mrs. Elma Gaffney received latest information on the services available.

Any club or organization may borrow films from the main library. These must be returned within 24 hours. The service is free but a small fee is charged for insurance on the films. Records are loaned on the same basis but for a longer period.

For invalid children, or adults who are confined to bed projected books are delivered from the Runder Library in Rochester, shown and returned without charge. These films are movies of books which are projected on the ceiling above the bed of the patient. Anyone in the county may apply in person or by letter for this service.

If a borrower desires a book that is not in the local library he may put in a request for it to the librarian. Requested books are delivered to the Fairport Library on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Car-owners, whether their pride and joy is a jalopy or a Supermarine Twelve, will cheer the addition of The Motor's Repair Manual. Removal, replacement, fitting and adjustment of mechanical parts of cars dating from 1935 to today is given in detailed instructions. Twenty-four makes of cars are discussed in this volume of over eight hundred pages.

For mystery fans, Shelley Smith's newest chiller, "An Afternoon to Kill," is now available. Also added for adults were: Beatty's Cabin, by Barker.

New books in the Fairport Library are Royal Family, by Barton; Story of Jesus, by Ferris; Never Victorious, Never Defeated, by Caldwell; Pocket Full of Rye, by Christie; Prelude to Space, by Clark; Bless This House, by Loftis; Nightmare in Copenhagen, by Albrand; Forty Plus and Fancy Free, by Kimbrough; Bright Sands, Taylor; Man Who Never Was, by Montagu; and Conquest of Everest, by Hunt.

Modern Telephone Design Made By F. K. vanAlmelo

Our attention has been called to the fact that in the March 22 issue of "Time Magazine" two important aids to modern communication are shown, in the creating and perfecting of which, one of the citizens of this village has played an important part.

The industrial design of the most modern telephone instrument shown, was done by Fred K. vanAlmelo, of 60 Summit St.

He is also in charge of Engineering of the automatic "X-Y" switch, one of the amazing instruments making dial-telephone possible.

Often we are not aware of the contributions made by our citizens to modern living; it is interesting to find out such details as given here.

At the last Fairport Village Board Meeting held March 2, 1954 the motion was made and carried to install a street light between 124 and 126 Roselawn Ave. This is at the ends of Roselawn Ave. and Nelson St. with a sharp curve where the two streets meet.

A motion was also made and carried to refer to the village attorney a bill from the Fairport Masonic Lodge for damages to a motor in the cellar of the lodge building caused by water seeping into the cellar from the street.

Fairport Youth Caught Speeding

Charles W. Arden Jr., 21, of 9½ North Main St., led Sheriff's Deputy John Ellis on a 12 mile chase which wound in and around East Rochester at a speed of up to 75 mph ending at 7 a.m. Sunday.

The pursuit, in which the youth's car allegedly went through eight stop signs at dangerous intersections and forced one car off the road, took on cat-and-mouse aspects at one point, according to Deputy Ellis.

Ellis said he spotted the car driven by Arden at Baird and Fairport Roads. He gave chase and was led through a maze of streets in East Rochester. At Filmore and South Washington Streets, in that village, Ellis said, Arden forced another machine to swerve to avoid a head-on collision.

Out of the village again, Arden drove into the Rodman gravel pit on Penfield Road. Ellis waited at the entrance and soon his quarry appeared. But Arden failed to stop at the deputy's command and the chase resumed.

Finally, Arden braked his car to a stop in Roosevelt Street, East Rochester. The youth started to run, then stopped short and walked slowly back to Ellis.

Arden said his license had been suspended four months ago for three speeding convictions and he feared the consequences of being arrested again.

Perinton Peace Justice John H. McLaughlin ordered the youth to post $100 bail pending appearance Saturday on charges of reckless driving, speeding and driving without an operator's license.

Clothes For Korea Drive Date Set

The "Clothes for Korea" drive starts next Monday, March 29, according to local chairman, Hy Lazerson.

Mr. Lazerson and his sons, Judge and Manny, who have a scrap metal business at 149 North Main St., will again collect the clothing and bale it as they did last year. Because of this service, which the Lazersons supply free of charge, Fairport is the County headquarters for the clothing drive.

Anyone having clothing which they no longer want are asked to bring it to Lazerson's warehouse.

There are still ten million destitute Koreans in desperate need of clothing. Persons who have seen this situation say, "Giving away a coat which you no longer plan to wear or some of your children's outgrown clothing may seem unimportant to you but it takes on a new significance when you realize it might save some homeless person from freezing to death.

Civil War Letter Shrouded In Mystery

When Mrs. Budgeon was moving from her old home at 9 West St. to her present residence at 130 West Church St., she found a botany book which she knew to be over 100 years old. In the book Mrs. Budgeon found a letter which appeared to have been written to Jefferson Davis in 1865, and signed by G. T. Beauregard.

The letter deals with policies of the tottering Confederacy during the Civil War.

There is a great deal of mystery in how the letter happened to come in the possession of Mrs. Budgeon's grandmother to whom the botany book belonged.

Two Students To Visit Europe

The American Field Service finally announced that Gail Foster and Lewis Holmes were the two lucky pupils from Fairport High School to go to Europe this summer.

The American Field Service was founded by a group of World War II ambulance drivers, who after seeing the ill effects of war, wanted to promote better relations between nations and prevent future wars. Since the last war an ever increasing number of teenagers have spent their summers in Europe.

Gail and Lewis, both of whom are going to Germany, will live in the home of some family and will become "one of the family" during July and August. They both have responsibilities in the family much the same as in their own home.

Each student must have at least $115 in order to make the trip besides his or her own spending money. The Rotary Club has already given $150 towards their expenses and the Parent Teachers Association is going to have a square dance in the near future to raise more money for the two students.

Both Gail and Lewis are members of the junior class of Fairport High School. Miss Foster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Gordon Foster of 140 W. Church St. and Lewis Holmes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn C. Holmes of 37 West Street.
